3 NOLOGY.

4 (a) FINDING.—Congress finds that since 1954, the 5 Naval Nuclear Propulsion Program has maintained and 6 operated more than 100 naval nuclear reactors, services
7 and supplied by thousands of American workers, to power
8 United States aircraft carriers, submarines, and other
9 military vessels.

10 (b) LISTENING SESSION.—As soon as practicable, the 11 Director of the Naval Propulsion Program, in coordination
12 with the Secretary of Energy, shall host a confidential lis-
13 tening session with the Armed Forces and nuclear stake-
14 holders that hold either C, Q, or L access authorizations 15 (clearance). In the listening session, the Director shall 16 share the lessons learned by the Naval Propulsion Pro-
17 gram with other Armed Forces and stakeholders to famil-
18 iarize them with nuclear technology and generate innova-

1 tive ideas to use already-established designs, methods, and 2 resources to ultimately assist the Armed Forces in adopt-
3 ing and embracing advanced nuclear technology to assist
4 with future military operations and to alleviate logistical 5 constraints.
